SUPER SHELBY IS SMASHING CHARITY WALKING CHALLENGE

By EMILY COLLINS emilyc@selbytimes.co.uk

An exceptional hero from the Selby area is taking on an impressive fitness challenge to raise money for a charity that helps people with Down Syndrome.

Shelby McCleod is taking on the 100-mile walking challenge to raise money for the Down Syndrome Charity, which will be on March 25, celebrating the fact that Down Syndrome is caused by having three chromosomes instead of two.

In Selby, an approaching 100-mile charity walk has set the target of walking 100 miles in 23 days, completing her challenge on World Down Syndrome Day.

Her goal is to raise money for the charity, which helps people with Down Syndrome, and she is also hoping to raise awareness of the condition.

Shelby is really passionate about helping people with Down Syndrome, and she is also hoping to raise awareness of the condition.

This is her first time taking on such a challenge, and she is really excited to take on the challenge.

meaning for a cause which is close to her heart, as she has spent more than £20,000 over the years, paying the daily care and support she needs for her child.

The 100-mile challenge is a charity walk in London, which will be completed by the end of the month.

Shelby will be completing her 100-mile walk in London, which will be completed by the end of the month.
